City development concerns candidates

Roman Staff Writer

Community development - from the mayor's to the clerk's to the treasurer's office is the main concern of the six men vying for the three top administrative posts in the Romulus Nov. 6 general election. The six - Hyle J. Carmichael incumbent mayor; Leonard Folmar, incumbent clerk; Al Glinski, treasurer; Terry L. Troutt, mayoral candidate, Gary Bingamen; clerk candidate, and John Lewkowicz, treasurer candidate - agreed they would aim at development for Romulus.

But they aim in different directions

However, they all aim in a different way. CARMICHAEL, who has served for the past years, sees the need of a "super salesman" to promote Romulus

"To get industry and commerce in this city, we need a man who is willing to promote it," Carmichael said. "I see that man as an industrial coordinator-planner.

"Of course, we must keep developing community services - water and sewer, paving, storm drainage and public safety - to make this city attractive to outside interests

Troutt said the city must progress even faster on community service programs to attract better development.

"WE HAVE TO get this city on the move, especially on paving and recreation," Troutt said, "If elected, I will undertake a road improvement program, even if the city needs a bond issue to do it, to provide roads needed by industry

We also have to develop recreation so industry sees that Romulus is a fit place for its workers to live. However, Troutt is unwilling to tackle his proposals without his council team. Tve told my supporters, 'If you want me, and don't like my slate, don't vote for me, because I won't waste two years of my life," the mayoral hopeful repeated.

CARMICHAEL isn't so absolute on who he

"I've chosen to run with people who have the same goals for the city - people with vision to improve Romulus," he said. "But, if all weren't elected, I'd hope that any candidate running for office is open-minded enough to work with the mayor to bring about a better Romulus.

Bingamen and Folmar agree the clerk's office is "the important first impression" most people have of the city's leadership, (Continued on Page A-3)

We should have more than what we've had," he said, And the best way to do that is to promote Romulus for business and industry.

BUTZ WOULD propose that the "city join with the school board to avoid duplication of ax money for recreation" to divert funds to other necessary services.

Two council candidates running as independents against slates campaigns independent two slates against the established by the mayoral candidates in the Nov. 6

Both candidates-running their own campaigns-boast public service dating back to Romulus township days, something only two of 22 candidates running on the two organized slates can claim. AND BOTH believe they can better serve the citizens of the city because of their experienced independent stance.

Raspberry, who has served as the city's mayor pro-tem during the past 31/2 years— having topped the council ticket in 1970-intends to "do those things which will make Romulus a progressive and decent community in the future" if elected.

Likewise, Stewart, who was one of the first councilmen elected in 1970, pledges to "give the people better service" if returned to office. Raspberry finished seventh and Stewart 10th in the Aug. 7 primary balloting. "I OWE NO allegiance to any man's program, and therefore, can work with anyone who is elected," Stewart said. "If elected, I intend to call for streamlining of the city, especially in the area of a master plan, to provide the zoning guidance necessary for developing this community. "Romulus has as much potential as any community to develop into the best community around, but it needs strong leadership on the part of councilmen, and the administration to develop."

Raspberry said the com-munity has the potential to develop "along the lines of a Dearborn at a price people can pay" so long as the councilmen elected Nov. 6 work "in a positive gradual way toward the community's betterment.

If elected, Raspberry has promised to encourage industry to locate in Romulus and continue programs such as paving, strengthening police protection and water and sewer line construction. 16-year-old Romulus selected for the conference. youth is one of only 10 youths in the nation who have been invited to speak on health care for adolescents.

Roundtree, a student at Mumford High School's premedical education program in Detroit, maintains that youths suffer a lack of medical care because of confusion over present health delivery systems.

"TRADITIONALLY, a pediatrician is a physician who cares fro a person from birth to age 21" Roundtree said. "However, if a teen were to go to his peers and say he was seeing a pediatrician for certain medical problems, he would suffer a type of a stigma in his society.

"Adolescents suffer from a gross lack of health care-in fact they are the one segement of society which suffers the greatest lack of care in this country

Roundtree said adolescents suffer a myraid of youthful medical problems—ranging from veneral disease to drug abuse to concerns over their sexuality.

With the confusion over the role of the pediatrician, many of these problems are not cared for until they reach the acute stage," he added. 'Sometimes after it is too late for the individual."

have operated under the premise that parents shouldn't meddle in school business.

We must realize that they do now in a most important way with bond issues and millages. The school alone cannot be held accountable for what is being done with children, the task force report states. "Parents must also be held responsible for what happens in local schools."

THE VEHICLE proposed for getting parents in the schools is a School Advisory Council (SAC) which would be composed of parents, administrators, teachers and students. The SAC would participate in:

-Selection of a principal.

-Development of a budget, program, personnel policy and measures to improve the quality of education.

-Preparation of the Annual School Progress

The Annual Report of School Progress would be designed to assist in making each school more accountable to the people it serves, according to the task force

THE REPORT WOULD include population data of the school service area, plans for improvement of the school, pupil performance and subjective views of school strengths and weaknesses, from staff, students and parents. The House Republicans also proposed that each secondary school establish a job placement bureau for its students.

"It would seem that education has a definite responsibility to assist each student in developing a marketable skill to provide income for their basic needs," the report continues. 'We feel the name of the game is jobs," the task force states.

IN ALL ITS deliberations about education, the Task Force members said that it must be kept in mind that "education is the most important function of state government.

GM plant expansion is 'good' for Romulus

Two news items appearing in The Enterprise-Roman last week merit some editorial commentary—because the good news focused on industrial expansion, jobs and a drug counseling service center.

With the announcement that Detroit Diesel

Allison Division of Genrral Motors plans a $100 million expansion to its present facilities, came this far-more encouraging news-"Plant's Expansion Means 1,300 Jobs..."

And we agree with Romulus Mayor Hyle Carmichael that "This is the biggest thing to hit Romulus in degades," and we agree that GM's apparent faith in Romulus means better days for the growth and development of the community While Carmichael should share some of the credit for getting GM to invest in Romulus, mayoral challenger Terry Troutt reminds that the diesel plant expansion was the result of spade work during his township supervisor

At this juncture, we commend each and every individual who may have helped and in particular, to General Motoors officials who think Romulus has something to offer to

Polio-measles pose epidemic threat

Failure to vaccinate cause for health alarm

Editor's Note: To assist area health officials in alerting Western Wayne County residents on the importance of vaccinations, the following special report and health check list box are published by The Enterprise-Roman.

The Wayne County Medical Society, the Wayne County Department of Health, and the Detroit Health Department, are urging parents during this month to have their children vaccinated against a number of potentially serious childhood diseases.

Experts are concerned that the percentage of young children who have been vaccinated against such diseases as polio and measles is dangerously low, posing the potential threat of epidemics.

October, which has been designated as "Immunization Action Month," is part of a cooperative national and local effort to increase the number of young children vaccinated against certain childhood diseases.

IT WILL SERVE as the kickoff for an intensive, ongoing campaign aimed at finding unvaccinated preschool-age children and motivating their parents to seek immediate medical attention. A number of public and groups, pharmaceutical firms and the Center for Disease Control have joined forces to carry out the program.

Dr. John J. Witte, Chief of the Public Health Service Immunization Branch, points out that only about 60 percent of children one to four years of age have been vaccinated against measles. This, Dr. Witte explains, is not enough to assure that epidemics will not Wayne County experienced over a 1000 percent increase in the number of measles cases reported as compared to 1972. This amount of disease can, and should, be avoided by vaccinating our young children." Dr. Polkowski stated that only about 50 percent of the pre-school age children in Outer Wayne County have been vaccinated against measles, and only 40 percent of these children have completed a series of oral polio thousands more permanently paralyzed. Measles, which many people regard as a mild disease, can cause such serious complications as pneumonia, hearing disorders and brain damage. Before a vaccine was available, hundreds of children died each year from measles complications.

German measles, on the other hand, usually isn't serious in children, but often causes birth defects and deaths when contracted by pregnant women. The vaccine is recommended for children because they are the primary carriers of the disease. Diphtheria, which used to be a common cause of childhood deaths, attacks the throat and nasal passages, developing a membrane that obstructs breathing. Tetanus, or lockjaw, is fatal in about half of the people who get it. It is caused by bacteria in contaminated dirt getting into wounds. Pertussis, or whooping cough, is frequently fatal in babies, but less serious in older children and adults.

DR. POLKOWSKI SAID all the vaccines have been successful in dramatically reducing the incidence of disease, but she warns that the diseases can be kept under control only if enough children are vaccinated. She urges parents to check the vaccination records for their children, to talk with their doctors or a public health department physician, if they have any questions, and to make sure their children receive any vaccinations they have missed. She recommended that children be vaccinated as early as possible and warned against waiting until they are ready for school.

Looking ahead, Dr. Polkowski points out that the reduction of vaccinations for such diseases as polio and measles in children one to four years of age is a dangerous trend that, unless checked, could lead to serious outbreaks of disease.

ALLOWING THE CHILD to remain unvaccinated during the first years of life, she concluded, "is a risk no parent should take."

The Wayne County Department of Health in cooperation with the Wayne County Medical Society and the Detroit Health Department are encouraging parents and doctors alike to update their immunization records during October, National Immunization Action

Residents in Western Wayne County should call the Wayne County Department of Health at 721-0200 or 274-2800, extension 6891 or 6892 for clinic immunization information.

Wants local buses

To the Editor: With great happiness I read the order of the Wayne County Circuit Court to void the three-year contract the school board had negotiated with a Chicago firm to provide bus service to our students-at a cost of $504,000. This amount was the same as the district spent when it ran its own buses and had twice as many drivers - and buses.

To insure a profit for the Chicago firm and to allow them to operate with half as many buses and drivers, our students were placed on staggered (three shifts) pickups.

I fervently hope the school district will go back to using our own facilities, community resources, and drivers—as do all the large busing schools in our area. We were happy before the Chicago firm moved in and we will be twice as happy

Allowing the child to remain unvaccinated during the first years of life 'is a risk no parent should take.'

The Michigan Department of Public Health has reported that about 70 percent of Michigan's pre-schoolers have been vaccinated against measles and only 59 percent vaccine. Therefore, if an epidemic were to start, it could spread quickly through this age group, with possible devastating results to its young victims.

In discussing which vaccinations young children should receive, Dr. Polkowski gives top priority to six diseases - polio, measles, German measles (rubella), diphtheria, tetanus and pertussis.

According to the American Academy of Pediatrics, vaccination for polio should be given orally three different times at twomonth intervals during the first year or so of

A BOOSTER DOSE is recommended at about 18 months of age, and another at about four or five years of age. In 1955, the year polio vaccine was introduced, there were 30,000 reported cases of the disease in the U.S. Widespread use of the vaccine caused that number to drop below 1,000 in 1961. Last year, only 17 cases of polio were reported in this

A combination vaccine is given for diphtheria, tetanus and pertussis. This, too, is a three-stage vaccination beginning at about two months of age. Children can be vaccinated against measles and German measles with one injection of a combination vaccine or as two separate injections. Youngsters should be vaccinated against these two diseases shortly after their first birthday.

POLIO, A DISEASE of the central nervous system, has struck in a series of epidemics wer the years, the last during the 1950s, taking thousands of lives and leaving

Held at Weber's Inn, Ann Arbor, the party was hosted by the couple's seven children and their respective mates: Mr. and Mrs. Charles (Barbara) Berry of Grand Rapids; Mr. and Mrs. Arthur (Joy) Hill and Mr. and Mrs. William Hennells of Belleville; Mr. and Mrs. Melvin (Betty) Sanders of Plymouth, formerly of Belleville; Mr. and Mrs. Otto (Alice) Bitnar of Ypsilanti; Mr. and Mrs. Ransom Hennells of Plymouth; and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hennells of Ypsilanti.

Vicki Palmer, the bride's friend since grade school, came from Michigan State University to serve as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Rhonda Reed of Belleville; Joanne Herkimer, another childhood friend, from the University of Michigan; and Karen Watson of Saline, also a grade school friend.

IDENTICALLY FASH-IONED, their pale blue chiffon gowns were patterned in the empire mode and accented with white lace inset with tiny pink roses. Complimenting their dresses were large blue picture hats trimmed in lace and bouquets of blue and white carnations.

Children should observe precautions on Halloween

-Warning children not to eat any of the treats they may receive until parents have had a chance to inspect them.

Be suspicious of candy wrappers which have been tampered with, or fruit with broken skin. Objects such as ground glass, poison and sewing needles have been introduced by persons into the "treats" they hand out to -Forbidding the wearing of costumes so loose or so long that they can catch on fences, bushes or moving vehicles, or that can trip the child. Don't allow the child to carry or wear anything sharp —

Belleville teens join big band

Three area residents are numbered among the new University of Michigan's Marching Band. Eileen Heath and David Salisbury both of Belleville and Steven Bell of Wayne will help to make the U-M band one of the largest bands in the history of the university Under the direction of George Cavender, the band will perform at seven home football games.

The 235 member band breaks down as follows: 235 playing instruments, a 15-unit color guard, four twirlers and one drum major. Women are included in band membership for the second year.

Competition for this year's marching band was the most intense in years, Cavender said. There were more than 300 applicants who tried out, Members of each of the various band sections have an important role in determining who will be included in the band roster.

Fire retardant solutions are available in retail stores, or you can make your own from nine ounces of borax, four ounces of boric acid and one gallon of hot water.

-Facial makeup is preferable to masks which present a vision hazard. If children do use masks, warn them to remove the masks when crossing streets - and remind them to cross at intersections or specifically marked pedestrian crossings. -Never let children wander too far from home or into unfamiliar areas, and never let them go alone. Best of all, accompany children on their outings, and wait at the foot of the walk while they go to the house

-Should you be driving that night, exercise special caution, and go no faster than 20 miles per hour in residential areas.

"Homeowners also can do their part," the safety director said. "Making sure yards and walks are free of hazards. Tie strips of white cloth to newly planted trees. Store trash cans, lawnmowers, bicycles and the like. And leave outside lights burning - they prevent tumbles and discourage vandalism."

But now, hope finally is in sight for homeowners who are neither plaster jockeys nor idly rich. A multitude of new ceiling styles that won't crack, chip or peel are available in both acoustical and nonacoustical styles.

PREVIOUSLY, TILED CEILINGS were reserved exclusively for refurbished basements and rec rooms. The beveled V-groove edges of the tiles and the checkerboard effect they made on the ceilings simply wasn't what most homeowners wanted to have in their dining, living or even bedrooms. But with the advent of new designs tiled ceilings are moving out of the basement and into the more formal rooms Because tiles are made of a new base material, designers can eliminate the old V-groove bevels to produce a 90 degree square tile edge. With one edge butted tightly next to another through precision-cut joints. In this way the unsightly lines disappear. The result is a pleasingly at-tractive monolithic ceiling. Decorate in wood

Are you trying to rise above ordinary landscape stan-dards? If so consider accessories as a means to update or add highlights to your yard, says an extension landscape architect

Wood accessories are becoming more popular because of their natural weathering. A wood deck for example, provides more air, dries quickly, and is softer than cement or blocks. Wood sculpture or driftwood mounted for accent can add shadow as an added dimen-

Lighting fixtures also can be built from wood, though they are usually decorative shells. Sometimes they are seen hanging or in a series of vertical lightposts.

If there is a handyman around the house he can build a deacon's bench for the porch

Household items, such as an old copper boiler, can be cleaned up and used as planters. Use a copper cleaner prevent tarnish. These are often decorated with appropriate greens for the holidays.

By ANDY LANG

- My house needs insulation in two of the outside and apply a lacquer finish to walls. I know that I can have it done by a professional company, which blows it behind the walls. Is it possible to do it myself to save the labor costs?

A. - Yes, it's possible, but third into the ground will give it's not an easy job. Since the insulation must get behind both the wall and the sheathing, you have to remove the exterior wood, whatever it is, then bore large holes in the the top hollowed out to catch sheathing and drop in the loose-fill insulation. A. - You can patch it. Use asphalt roofing cement and spread it into the opening. Better get to it right away or you'll have a leak soon.

Q. - I am making a book-

A. - You can use any of various types of moulding, including what is known as half round. These can be attached to the edges with finishing nails or, for a neat job, with adhesive. But perhaps the best way is to cover the edges with what is called tape edging and is sold at most lumber yards and building supply houses. Some hardware stores also carry it.

Will a separate elec-trical circuit be required for the operation of the power tools? A. - It isn't absolutely necessary if you are to use only small power tools, such a quarter-inch electric drill. But you would be wise to have a separate circuit for the tools. As nearly always happens, you'll be expanding your shop and getting bigger power tools and then a separate circuit will be mandatory.

To protect roses from the low and fluctuating temperatures of winter, follow these steps:

After the first killing frost pile soil at least six inches high around the base. (Dig soil from another part of the garden so you do not inure the roots of the rose plants.)

- Draw the canes together and place a waterproof paper cylinder of special rose cylinder over each bush. Cut the plant tops off even with the top of the cylinder.

 Fill the cylinder with dry vermiculite, perlite, groundup corn cobs, soil, or other similar material.

Cover the top of the cylinder with polyethylene film and anchor it securely. Water thoroughly after two heavy freezes unless there has been a heavy rain.

When the fround is frozen. cover rose beds with evergreen branches or straw Do not uncover them in the spring until the danger of frost is past.

We know you can't always get to the bank during bankers hours. So we did away with them.

And came up with People Hours.

People Hours are extra long hours. From 10:00 a.m. till 7:00 p.m. Monday, Thursday and Friday. They make it pretty convenient for you to do your banking.

And that's not just for check-cashing. When our offices are open, they're open to handle our complete range of banking services. From loans to mortgages to savings accounts to checking accounts to everything.

People Hours.

They mean you can bank when you want to. Instead of when most bankers want you to.

Traffic kind, that is

Belleville eyes problems

The Belleville city ad-ministration has taken steps to get the Michigan State Highway Department to review Main Street vehicular traffic, hoping for the in-stallation of additional traffic lights in the city.

Belleville Mayor Royce E. Smith recently told city council members that he has written to Sen. William Faust and Rep. Gary M. Owen asking them to contact the state highway department for a traffic study and survey as soon as possible.

Presently there are 16,700 vehicles a day traveling through the city's main thoroughfare controlled by traffic lights at Main Street, Columbia Avenue and Huron River Drive and Third Avenue. The mayor said there is a need for at least two more traffic lights.

In other actions the council: -approved the reap-pointments of Albert Richardson, Dr. Jack Tator and the appointment of John Touse to the board of appeals. They will serve terms ending Nov. 1, 1975.

-approved a permit application filed by Michigan

And save lives

Safe driving can reduce gasoline costs

Safe, sensible driving not only saves lives but also can mean a $232 annual reduction in gasoline costs for the average motorist Automobile Club of Michigan fuel economy tests have revealed.

The tests, conducted with a 1971 Chevrolet Impala over a 22.8-mile commuter route, showed a maximum 44 per cent fuel loss when the car was operated by a "poor driver" as compared to a "good as result of a badly untned driver.

'Driving habits had a dramatically larger impact on gas mileage than either an untuned engine or air con-ditioner use," said Art Gibson Auto Club Safety and Traffic Engineering manager. "Our tests showed there was about a 10 per cent fuel loss due to air conditioning and slightly

GOOD DRIVING techniques used in the tests included smooth acceleration, travel at an even rate of speed and never using brakes more than required to make routine

To demonstrate bad driving habits, test driver made "jack rabbit" starts, rapid stops, weaved in the out of traffic to the point where he had to apply brakes to avoid hitting the car in front of him.

Traveling in mid-afternoon traffic, the test car got 14.36 miles per gallon (phg) with good driving habits and 8.11 mpg with bad driving habits for the maximum 44 per cent fuel loss. Morning "rush hour" test runs resulted in 14.38 mpg with good driving and 8.24 mpg with bad driving. The fuel loss was 43 per cent. The tests covered a circular and several times accelerated route which went south into downtown Detroit from the Lodge Freeway, north on Woodward Avenue and then west on Eight Mile Road.

In calculating that $232 a year in gasoline costs can be saved by safe driving, Auto Club estimated that the average motorist drives 10,000 miles annually. Regular gas was priced at 43.3 cents a gallon - the current state average, according to a weekly "fuel gauge" survey of Michigan service stations.

"We used a '71 Chevrolet with a 350 cubic inch, V-8 engine because our research showed this represents the average type of car on the road today," Gigson said.

Another phase of Auto Club's fuel economy showed a 23 per cent maximum fuel loss due to bad driving habits when the test car was operated at 70 m.p.h. expressway speeds.

Fate of 1,300 servicemen remains mystery

Enterprise-Roman Editor

The fate of America's more than 1,300 missing-in-action servicemen in Southeast Asia remains a mystery - even to POW Lt. Col. Donald Odell.

Though "preferring" not to render an "opinion" on their whereabouts or fate; he did stress "We saw them bail out, and we saw interrogators take them away.

Speaking to a recent combined meeting of the Wayne Rotary and chamber of commerce, Odell revealed: "At a recent reunion of POWs, we learned that the State Department has not given up in their efforts to learn the fate of our missing-in-action servicemen.

CONTINUING ON his plan to deter crime. Cahalan added: "From the time a police officer makes an arrest, and until the suspect is convicted, we repreatedly are reminded that the accused must be granted equal protection under the law-but once he goes before the judge for sentencing, the decision is based on the whim and caprice of the judge."

Cahalan said he recommends a revamping of Michigan's penal code penalty system to deter crime."

"A specific penalty should be set for each and every crime category--and when a person is convicted of a certain crime he must serve the complete term." he added.

While not blaiming the courts entirely. Cahalan admitted: "We have all failed to deter crime. Last year in Detroit, 65 per cent of the persons cinvicted of commiting a felony crime did not lose one day of freedom." UNDER THE STATE'S

The only certainty to deter crime is to hand down the legislated punishment," emphasized.

HE ALSO pointed out that in some judicial districts most offenders go to jail, while in other districts, the majority go on probation...and that makes our penal concept

In defense of some "softsentencing" judges, the county prosecutor said: "Some of the prison terms are too stiff. Under my plan they would be reduced...but once established, they would be enforced. No one gets any

Belleville to face winless Dearborn

If Belleville High's defensive backfield improves as much in practice this week as the offense did last week, Head Coach Keith Emerson may yet be able to salvage something from the Tigers' disenchanting football season.

Though Belleville plummeted to its third straight Suburban Eight Conference of Plymouth Salem, 33-18, Emerson's chagrin was tempered somewhat by the fact that the Tigers rolled up almost 300 yards total offense against a stingy defense-merely a week after mustering just eight yards in a 21-0 loss to Dearborn Edsel

New swim rule to punish small schools

By TOM MOORADIAN

The rich will get richer, the poor, pooer if a recent Michigan High Schoo, Athletic Association swim ruling is put into use this season.

The rule changes the scoring system to award quantity and not quality, according to many of the coaches in the area.

Scoring in a six lane pool for individual events will be based on six points for first place and 4,3,2,1,0 for the next five places, while the relays will be scored on a 8,4,3,2,0 basis in a

In schools that have five lane pools the scoring will be 4,2,1,0 for individual events, while relays will be scored 6,3,1,0. (Previously the scoring was 5,3,1 for all individual events and 7-0 for relays regardless of pool

ONE OF THE coaches who expressed his dissatifaction with the new rule was Belleville High's Sam Vicchy who felt "the new rule may be "Without consulting with the rest of the coaches they (MSHSAA) have passed this rule," said Vicchy, "and this really upsets me. We haven't discussed such a radical rule, a rule that will punish the small schools and award the bigger ones. Vicchy said he knew of no other sport where you alter the scoring because there is a difference in the field "What difference is there in five or six lanes as long as they are 25 yards long?" he asked. "What is going to happen is that the big schools who have numbers will be able to pick up the second, third, fourth and fifth places while the smaller schools that do not have quantity will be out of luck.

"Do you realize that a team could possibly take all of the first places and still lose the meet because it lack the num-bers? How would you like to be involved in a meet like that?"

The 34-year-old Belleville coach has been the swim instructor at the school for the past three years said, "aside from that one asinine rule, the new rule book is good."

"I REALLY like the new rule book because it defines the rules and there are no loopholes. But the scoring upsets me and something will have to be done about it.

The MSHAA apparently adopted the rule to force coaches to open the doors to more boys who wanted to learn to swim.

"I don't know what the reasoning is, but I think we should find out," continued the Belleville mentor. "But you don't have to have more scoring to make a swim meet exciting. All you have to do is come to one.

The preps also will find another rule change this year.
Instead of the 400 yard freestyle, they'll be swimming 500.
Why would MHSAA pass such a scoring system? Al Wachtel, Westland John Glenn Coach took a shot at the

"I'm afraid that the people in charge of the Michigan High School Athletic Association's swimming world are coaches of larger teams," Wachtel said. "The new rule defintely will make the larger teams stronger and the smaller teams weaker and, therefore, I just can't go along with the new rule.

For better or for worse, it is obvious that high school girls sports competition is here to stay.

Pity the ole sports writer and editor.

Wayne Memorial has inaugurated its first girls varsity swimming program and its cross-town rival, John Glenn, also has such a program; Garden City West has tennis and East, girls basketball team.

And you can go on and on.

Mothers have been dropping into this office and asking questions about, "Why there hasn't been any coverage by the local newspaper of these girls' events; some have been armed with 'releases' about the competition.

But, one glance at these "stories" and a newspaper man can only but shake his head. There are no first names, sometimes there are only first names but no surnames of the participants; scores are incomplete, given of the home team. You don't know who won - or lost - the competition

Phone 699-7522 TERRY DARLING, Owner related Emerson, "and I guess it worked--at least we scored some points against Plymouth.

"NOW IF WE can keep that intact and take care of the problems in our defensive backfield and kicking game, we should start playing like we're capable of playing Specifically, Emerson was referring to the excellent success the Plymouth offense enjoyed in working the quarterback position against the young Tiger defense.

"We just couldn't contain their option," he said. "Our backs weren't coming up like they should so their quar-terback was getting away with a lot." Belleville will face a far less effective offense Friday afternoon at league foe Dearborn.

The problems in the Belleville kicking game were brought to light when two Tiger punts were blocked resulting in two Plymouth touchdowns, but the coach insists it's not the line that is breaking down, but the lack of the Tigers' number one kicker, Gary VanBuhler. VAN BUHLER-ALSO the starting quarterback before suffering a knee injury in the Edsel Ford game, remains sidelined with possible ligament damage according to Emerson. 'The doctors drained the knee but still cannot tell for sure if there is a ligament injury," he said.

The loss of the experienced senior as a punter may be even a bigger factor than his absense from the quarterbacking duties, because of his exceptional quickness in getting off his booming kicks.

Filling in for him behind the center is senior Lee Stiltner. who, despite completing nearly 50 per cent of his passes against Plymouth for 200 yards and one TD, threw three interceptions.

Stiltner began the 1972 season as Belleville's No. 1 signal-caller, but lost it to Van Buhler until now.

ALTHOUGH EMERSON claims the three interceptions did not hurt his team because they did not set up Plymouth scores, his attitude wasn't quite the same about the Tigers' three fumbles and pair of blocked punts.

"That killed us. Four Plymouth TDs were set up by the blocked punts and two of the fumbles." he said.

Prior to the game, Emerson declared that none of Belleville's remaining opponents (Plymouth, Allen Park and Ypsilanti) "have any better personnel than us."

He still maintains that belief and blames his latest defeat on a "breakdown of two or three key players. I think if we had not had that breakdown we would have won," he said. THE TIGERS CAN ill afford another such breakdown Friday at Dearborn, which games still poses as a threat to Emerson's sputtering platoons

"Dearborn has some goodlooking personnel," he said, employing the age-old coaching tactic of praising the opponent. "But if we play for once like we know we can and don't let them get on top of us we should win.

What Belleville cannot withstand again is another rushing attack as persistent as Plymouth's. The Rock ballcarriers punched for 289 of Plymouth's 328 total yards, but the real damage came on the Belleville turnovers.

Plymouth scored the first three touchdowns on runs of two and five yards by Jeff Horton and a three-yard skip by Mark Kraay. The Tigers then struck on a four-yard burst by Hubert Russell to cap a 50-yard drive.

THE ROCKS notched the next two scores when Greg Baker scooped up a blocked Belleville punt at the two and carried it in, and Kraay ran one yard.

THE ROMULUS mentor said he was forced to make some personnel changes in order to patch up the team's defenses. Two newcomers, Steve Holliday and Mike Ellis, who moved up to the varsity gave the Eagles a big lift.

Wolves battle Gophers for 'Jug' words for it are "grinding meat" but the University of Michigan running attack against Wisconsin was more of a superb job of slicing up the edges as the Wolverines clipped the Badgers for 415 yards rushing en route to a 35-

But while the runners have the yards, the key to the whole attack is quarterback Dennis Franklin, the trigger man. Franklin has become a master setting up the backs, he rushed for 63 yards and a touchdown himself against Wisconsin. He also kept the Franklin has been hampered in recent games by a broken finger on his left hand but Saturday he was back in gear. "We've really been operating with a half-speed quarterback." Schembechler commented after the game. But not anymore. Franklin is starting to come. He makes things happen. Now if we just can get back some of our of-

Schembechler may have his wish very soon as he announced that guard Mike Hoban (knee injury), tackle Jim Coode (pinched nerve) and guard Kirk Lewis (cracked ribs) all will return to practice this week.

IT COULDN'T come soon enough for Michigan as the Wolverines next opponent is Minnesota on the road. The Gophers have displayed explosive offense and Schembechler feels they can play with anyone in the Big Ten. Last week Minnesota dropped Iowa, 31-23, as the Gopher veer was in top form.

The Michigan defense will have another strong challenge and the defenders hope to rise to the occasion. Wisconsin's only touchdown came on a weird pass deflection, going from tight end Jack Novak to tailback Bill Marek, and Michigan felt that play cost a fourth straight shutout.

Except for that play, which covered 65 yards, Wisconsin was virtually stopped cold. The Badgers came in 15th in the country in rushing but got only 109 yards as end Walt Williamson, tackle Dave Gallagher and linebacker Steve Strinko were all rocks on defense.

'We're improving," was Schembechler's cautious estimate after the game. "But we still have to get better," he warned. "We have a tough game coming up and it will get more difficult with each passing week. A football team must improve during the season and this is our goal. We must do it if we are to continue winning."

Jim Czirr, a sophomore from St. Joseph, started his first game at center, but Schembechler said, "We'll wait and see what happens in practice this week before deciding on Jim or Tom
